Dear Member,

Society meeting Wednesday 7th September at 7.30pm In Pulborough Village Hall

This illustration (which is courtesy of the University of Austin, Texas!) is indicative of what could probably have been seen in Chichester Harbour a thousand years ago.

'A Saxon naval base in Chichester Harbour' is the subject of this meeting when local naval historian

Philip Macdougall will give a presentation describing how this ancient harbour was used – a far cry from its current leisure emphasis.

Subsequent meetings can now be confirmed as follows:

Wed 5th October at 7.30pm (a week earlier than originally scheduled)

Introduced by member Christine Lindsay, David Whitbread from the Sussex Wildlife Trust will talk about 'The Changing Face of Nature in Pulborough'

Wed 16th November at 2.30pm (please note this is an afternoon meeting)

Local weather 'guru' Ian Currie will give a presentation entitled '350 years of weather in Pulborough and the South-East'

These meetings will also include updates on local planning and other issues
